CamWest honored by Vision House

Kirkland—CamWest was recently named “2007 Corporate Champion” by Vision House, a residential program which provides transitional housing and support services to homeless men, women and children in Washington State.

CamWest, the fourth largest home builder in the Pacific Northwest, participated in expanding the Children’s Village with four new two-bedroom units above a childcare facility. As “Builder Captain”, CamWest worked with trades and suppliers to donate time and materials.

Eric Campbell, president and founder of CamWest Development, Inc. received the award and spoke at the Business Professionals Breakfast. He expressed his enthusiasm for the mission of Vision House and recognized the contributions of CamWest employees Kelley Molstad and Dan Ostrem to the Vision House program.

Since its inception in 1989, CamWest has committed its talents and resources to building unique homes in distinct neighborhoods of enduring value. The company has become known in the region for a smooth customization process, CamYes!

CamWest recently introduced its new theme, Eastside Excellence, reflecting its continued commitment to building exceptional eastside homes and communities such as The Woodlands in Redmond, Tyler’s Creek in Bothell and Windsor Fields in Sammamish, among many others.
