Taco truck? What's left for Tom Douglas?

You knew about the restaurants, the bakery, the radio show, the pizzas, the rubs, the cookbooks, the James Beard awards, the wasabi snack mix. But now there are Tom Douglas-designed kitchens. A cookware line is coming. And today we learn from Voracious that he's got a taco truck in the works.

Maggie Dutton writes that the move "only leaves pho shack and Argentinian steak house on his to do list."

OK, I'll play. Douglas also lacks a U-Pick farmstand and a drive-through burger joint. Anyone else want to join in?

Oh, and by the way, there's no reason he couldn't do that U-Pick if he wanted.
